A WOMAN LIKE ME

Diane Abbott

Britain's first ever female Black MP tells her astonishing and candid story of groundbreaking achievement, and the personal, political and social challenges she has faced

From challenging expectations as a bright and restless child of the Windrush generation to making history as the first elected Black female MP in the UK, Diane Abbott has seen it all.

In this honest and moving memoir, Diane paints a vivid picture of growing up in 1960s North London with her working-class Jamaican parents, before entering the hallowed halls of Cambridge University to study history. After a stint in media, Diane walked through the House of Commons as the only state-educated Black woman MP, and ever since has been a fearless and vocal champion for causes that have changed the lives of British people. From increasing access to education for Black children and speaking out against the Iraq war, to advocating tirelessly for refugees and immigrants, Diane has long been at the forefront of cultural change.

Written with her trademark frankness and humour, A WOMAN LIKE ME is an incredible journey and a candid account that celebrates how one woman succeeded against massive odds to build an extraordinary life.

Bold and immersive debut short story collection for fans of OPEN WATER and SUCH A FUN AGE

'A glittering new voice in the literary firmament. With insight and compassion she gets under the skin and inside the messy relationships of millennials in a way that feels vital and fresh.' – Bernardine Evaristo

'Funny, thought provoking and deeply moving. An astonishing debut.' – Taiye Selasi, author of GHANA MUST GO

'The paginated equivalent of that first toe dipping into a steaming bath – a sparkling, thought-provoking debut collection full of warmth, that gingerly guides you through the turmoil of the pandemic and sits you at the intersection of love, grief, uncertainty and the tender bonds of friendship and family.' – Onyi Nwabineli, author of SOMEDAY, MAYBE

A 2024 superlead title for Oneworld.

One of Bad Form's 'Best POC Debuts of 2024'

In FOR SUCH A TIME AS THIS, Shani Akilah deftly explores the connections that bind us; how we make them, maintain them, or even break them when they no longer serve us.

Gabby and Daniel cross paths at the wedding of a mutual friend. They both wonder if this could be the start of something, but fate has other ideas.

When Niah tries to call out her employer for their empty words about diversity and inclusion, she comes face to face with racism reaching right to the very top.

Sharna is holding onto her own secret when she sets out for Jamaica to visit her grandfather, on a trip that throws fresh light onto the family history she has always taken for granted.

Shani Akilah's stunning collection brings to life the stories of Black-British Londoners as they explore friendship and romance, community and independence, and navigate their way through the relationships that make them who they are.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Shani Akilah is a Black-British Caribbean writer and screenwriter from South London. She is a book influencer, co-founded the Nyah Network, a book club for Black women and was a literary judge for the Nota Bene Prize 2023. Shani has a Masters degree in African Studies from Oxford University.

BOMBSHELL: What We Got Wrong About the Beauty Myth and How To Make It Right

Saskia Alais

A seminal, vital book which challenges our attitude to beauty and proposes a new freedom

BOMBSHELL will dismantle the pervasive beauty myth that continues to afflict, oppress and profit from women, whilst focussing a clear eye on the intersecting issues of race, class, and age.

Blending pop culture references and case studies with historical and cultural analysis, BOMBSHELL envisions a more liberated future for everyone by confronting our complex relationship with beauty and exploring how it infiltrates every aspect of our existence; the jobs we do, the faces we see across our screens, how we internalize feelings of insecurity and inferiority, how we spend our money – the debt we accrue, who can afford to be ‘pretty,’ and how the pervasive beauty ideal sometimes impacts our physical safety.

Featuring contributions from notable figures across the beauty industry, film, TV, and music, as well as key activists and campaigners from around the world, BOMBSHELL not only sheds light on the magnitude of the issue but also offers solutions for those looking to fight back against a system that keeps women unhappy, self-conscious, and divided.

Beloved cook and crime-solver Tannie Maria is back, with more mystery – and cake!

Winner Nielsen SA Book Award for Fiction 2023

‘The perfect recipe for a murder mystery series. ... With an average of 4/5 stars on Goodreads, you can bet that these funny and charming books are well worth adding to your TBR.’ – Woman & Home

The Tannie Maria mysteries are all Number 1 or Top 5 bestsellers in South Africa. Sally is a firm festival favourite and receives a stream of fan mail from all around the world – often enquiring how soon the next delicious instalment will be out! Sally is currently writing Book 5 in the Tannie Maria series, WILD THINGS NEVER DIE.

Book 1: RECIPES FOR LOVE & MURDER: a Kirkus Best Book of 2015; a Wall Street Journal Best Mystery Book 2015; Bookseller Fiction Editor’s Choice 2015; Good Housekeeping Book of the Month 2015; Oprah’s Bookclub ‘16 Books for 2016’; Longlisted Sunday Times Fiction Prize 2016.

The residents of the village of Ladismith are watching a Marilyn Monroe movie when Frik, the local antique shop owner, drops dead. So Tannie Maria, smalltown newspaper agony aunt and sometime amateur sleuth, finds herself in drawn into of a murder investigation once again.

Maria also helps to catalogue the dead man’s belongings – all the while nursing a broken heart, since she is estranged from her policeman sweetheart, Detective Henk Kannemeyer. Then Frik’s nephew and heir is also found dead. As Maria grapples with her complex feelings for Henk she and her feisty reporter colleague Jessie amp up their investigation in search of justice. But the women are about to find themselves in danger too...

The hugely popular Recipes for Love and Murder TV series, starring Outlander’s Maria Doyle Kennedy as Tannie Maria, premiered on M-Net in South Africa in 2022. American streamer Acorn TV brought the 10-part series to the US, UK, Canada, New Zealand, Australia and Latin America (viewable via Amazon Prime). It was nominated for several awards and the second season starts filming in early 2024.

AGIMAT and THE LEFT-BEHIND CHILD

Romalyn Ante

Themes of family, immigration, divided worlds and spiritual and physical healing are explored in two breathtaking new works by an acclaimed young poet

A lyrical commitment to fostering resilience, hope, and healing, AGIMAT is the second poetry collection by Romalyn Ante, the first East-Asian writer to win the Manchester Poetry Prize and the Poetry London Prize.

When surrounded by pain and loss, how do we protect the people and things we love the most? How do we find our own Agimat? And what kind of talisman is it that we pass down? Reflecting on love and care through the parallels between two wars – the battle nurses faced during the COVID-19 pandemic and the lasting inter-generational trauma of the Japanese occupation in the Philippines – AGIMAT weaves together stories drawn from the personal, the global and the mythological.

A tender and moving poetry collection with universal resonances, inspired by Romalyn's exploration of family histories and her experiences as a migrant Filipino-British poet and nurse in childhood/adolescent mental health.

Romalyn's debut novel THE LEFT-BEHIND CHILD is a memorable autobiographical work for fans of Edwidge Danticat's BREATH, EYES, MEMORY – a vivid depiction of childhood and rupture, lyrically told. Exploring language and memory, migration and belonging, brokenness and healing, it becomes a reflection on the sacrifices made for and by our families: a mother who leaves her family in the Philippines to work and care for others in England, and a daughter left behind who, years later, will follow in those footsteps. Outline and chapters available in March 2024.

A gripping, emotional story of sisters, family and the power of memories for fans of Colleen Hoover and JoJo Moyes

'Wow... This book has everything, heartache, passion and twists galore.' – Jenny O'Brien

'Gripping, devastating and romantic... A tale of mystery, intrigue, despair and hope - but above all, of love.' – Gillian Harvey

If she had been found moments later, Amelia's heart would have stopped and never recovered. Instead, she was taken from the desolate beach to the nearest hospital just in time to save her life. When her sister Lexi arrives from New York, Amelia's heart is beating, but the accident has implanted a series of false memories about a man named Sam, and a perfect love story that never existed.

Determined to help her sister, Lexi enlists the help of Nick, a local vet who bears a striking resemblance to Sam. Together, Lexi and Nick recreate and photograph Amelia's dream dates in the hopes of triggering her true memories. But as love starts to stir between Lexi and Nick, they must navigate a complex web of emotions. How can Lexi fall for Amelia's dream man without hurting her sister?

SMITTEN: Romantic Obsession, The Neuroscience of Limerence, and How to Make Love Last

Dr Tom Bellamy

A fresh and scientific look at romantic obsession and relationships for fans of 8 RULES OF LOVE, ATTACHED and WIRED FOR LOVE

“Butterflies” in the stomach, intrusive thoughts, fantasies about imaginary scenarios, mood swings from euphoria to despair... aren't these all the familiar hallmarks of new love? Not quite. These are characteristics of the psychological state of “limerence”, also known as obsessive, passionate or addictive love that can become unhealthy.

Millions of people will experience limerence at some point in their life, and in this book, neuroscientist Dr Tom Bellamy explores scientific advances in understanding romance and obsession since the term was first coined in the 1970s, and sheds light on this little-understood element of the human experience. Discover:

- what drives limerence;
- how to recognise limerence in yourself and others;
- how to manage the phases of addiction to another person;
- and how to move past it to sustain longer, more fulfilling relationships.

With supportive advice about next steps, this book will help readers struggling with unwanted feelings to find emotional equilibrium.

SMITTEN is a brilliant and much-needed exploration of the psychology of infatuation, and how to recognise and move beyond it toward a healthier experience of love.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr Tom Bellamy is an academic neuroscientist and Associate Professor of Pharmacology at the University of Nottingham. He was awarded a PhD in Neuroscience from University College London in 2001, and held a personal fellowship at the Babraham Institute in Cambridge from 2004 to 2010. He has published over forty scientific papers, abstracts and book chapters on esoteric aspects of neurophysiology. He now writes about how the mechanisms of neurophysiology can help us understand human behaviour.

He is fascinated by the complex relationship between fundamental neurophysiology and human behaviour.

With echoes of BELOVED and SHUGGIE BAIN, a blistering portrait of three generations of women living under one roof, haunted by ghosts of the past

Winner of the Sunday Times Charlotte Aitken Young Writer of the Year Award

Longlisted for the Gordon Burn Prize 2022

Longlisted for CWA Gold Dagger Award

‘A propulsive, bountiful, fearless work of art’ – Oyinkan Braithwaite

‘One of the most powerful and urgent writers of our times.’ – David Peace

‘OXBLOOD shows us that there are few places literature can’t take us, if the writer is brave enough, and gifted enough.’ – Francis Spufford

Wythenshawe, South Manchester, England. 1985.

The Dodds family once ruled Manchester’s criminal underworld; now the men are dead, leaving three generations of women trapped in a house haunted by violence. A house that also harbours an unregistered baby, child of the house’s youngest mother.

Matriarch Nedra presides over the household, which bustles with activity as she prepares the welcome feast for her grandson Kelly’s return from prison.

Her grieving daughter-in-law Carol is visited by both the welcome, intimate ghost of her murdered lover, and by Mac, an ageing criminal enforcer, a man who may just offer her a real and possible future. And Jan, the teenage tearaway, is running as fast as she can from her mother, her grandmother, and her own unnamed baby.

Over the course of a few days, the Dodds women must each confront the true legacy of the men who have defined their lives; and seize the opportunity to break the cycle for good.

ALL THAT WE'VE GOT

Jendella Benson

During one relentlessly hot summer, two young women's lives are about to collide in the most unexpected ways

Mimi is a young single mother looking to break free from her mother's judgements and her church's oppressive, hypocritical gossip to establish who she is on her own. But a dangerous new romance could lead her into trouble...

Meanwhile, fifteen year old Abi lives her life vicariously through social media – and is eager to help her mother with the bills. When she's offered the chance to make money fast by helping a group of local boys, she and her friends jump at it. But soon they're running drugs for the gang, and Abi finds she's in over her head...

Could Mimi and Abi forge a bond that will free them both, at the heart of a community they've taken for granted?

A dramatic, refreshing perspective on city life that we don't always see, this is the stunning new novel from the author of the acclaimed HOPE & GLORY.

Praise for HOPE & GLORY

'As authentic and heart-warming as it is heart wrenching, a glorious ode to family life, love and loss.' — Yomi Adegoke

'Explores grief, love, friendship, dreams lost, life interrupted... intricate, beautiful and so very real. I held my breath, gasped out loud and devoured every gorgeous page. Just brilliant.' — Dorothy Koomson

'You don't initially realise how much there is to unpack in this family drama, thanks to Benson's easy-to-read, modern prose... a masterful look at how your history isn't always the one you've been told.' — Stylist

'Benson expertly portrays the anguish, friction, and love of a family under immense strain while providing insights on the difficulties faced by immigrants. The result is a sumptuous and satisfying meditation on family and the meaning of home.' — Publishers Weekly

Love, art & desire in 1636 Rome, based on a real woman and Bernini's muse: a 2024 super-lead debut

History calls her a muse. Temptress. Fallen woman.

This is her story.

In the scorched city of Rome, the cobbled streets hum with gossip and sin. Costanza Piccolomini is a respectable young wife – until she meets Gianlorenzo Bernini, the famed sculptor and star of Roman society, whose jet-black gaze matches his dark temper. From the second they set eyes upon each other, a fatal attraction is born.

Their secret love burns with a passion that consumes them. But with every stolen kiss and illicit tryst, Costanza's reputation is at stake. Meanwhile, Bernini has a dangerous desire: he wants to make Costanza immortal. He vows to possess her not just in body and soul, but also in marble.

When Bernini unveils his sculpture of Costanza she is exposed as his lover, marking the undoing of their affair – and the beginning of a scandal which will rock Roman society. For Bernini would rather destroy Costanza than let her go.

Betrayed. Abandoned. Banished. This was meant to be the end of Costanza's story. But Costanza is no ordinary woman: from the ashes, she will rise...

COSTANZA is a dizzying and sensual historical novel that brings to life a feminist icon who has been written out of history. This addictive tale of desire and betrayal is perfect for fans of THE GIRL WITH THE PEARL EARRING and THE MINIATURIST.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Rachel is a speechwriter and communications expert who was a winner at the Irish Novel Fair 2022, a runner-up in the Harper's Bazaar short story competition, and has also been highly commended by the Historical Writers' Association.

The Inspector Gorski trilogy concludes with another dark, witty and ingeniously crafted tale from the Booker-shortlisted Graeme Macrae Burnet

Praise for the Gorski series:

‘Games within games – and names within names... with characteristic trickiness, Macrae Burnet has constructed a fake mystery novel that may reveal the truth about a fictional novelist. He is extravagantly talented.’ – Mark Lawson, The Guardian

‘The whole is both a classy detective story and a stylish meditation on agency and existence. If Roland Barthes... had written a detective novel, then this would be it.’ – Literary Review

‘Gripping and intelligent.’ – Phillip Pullman, The Observer

‘CASE STUDY has a lot in common with the novels of Vladimir Nabokov and Roberto Bolaño, in which invented characters pass through tumultuous episodes of literary history that never quite happened, though it seems as if they should have.’ – New York Times

‘Enormous fun to read, a mystery and a psychological drama wrapped up in one. Magnificent... a triumph.’ – Alex Preston, Guardian, ‘Book of the Day’

I have decided to write down everything that happens, because I feel, I suppose, I may be putting myself in danger.

London, 1965. An unworldly young woman believes that a charismatic psychotherapist, Collins Braithwaite, has driven her sister to suicide. Intent on confirming her suspicions, she assumes a false identity and presents herself to him as a client, recording her experiences in a series of notebooks. But she soon finds herself drawn into a world in which she can no longer be certain of anything. Even her own character.

A dazzling – and often wickedly humorous – meditation on the nature of sanity, identity and truth itself, by one of the most inventive and ‘extravagantly talented’ (Guardian) novelists writing today.

Cambridge, 1994. Professor Don Lamb is a revered art historian at the height of his powers, consumed by the book he is writing about the skies of the Venetian master Tiepolo. However, his academic brilliance belies a deep inexperience of life and love.

When an explosive piece of contemporary art is installed on the lawn of his college, it sets in motion Don's abrupt departure from Cambridge to take up a role at a south London museum. There he befriends Ben, a young artist who draws him into the anarchic 1990s British art scene and Soho's nightlife.

Over the long, hot summer, Don glimpses a liberating new existence. But it is also a moment of self-reckoning, as his oldest friendship and his unexamined past are revealed to him in a devastating new light. As Don's life unravels, he suffers a shattering fall from grace.

Described as 'BRIDESHEAD REVISITED written by Martin Amis', with 'shades of John Williams' STONER' and 'a smart, sexy read, an addictive page-turner' (Evening Standard), TIEPOLO BLUE marks the arrival of a major literary talent.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

James Cahill's career has combined academia with a role at a leading contemporary art gallery. He was a Fellow at King's College London, and now based in Los Angeles. TIEPOLO BLUE is his debut novel.

Cahill is currently finishing THE VIOLET HOUR, which will be published by Sceptre (UKexCan) in February 2025. Set in New York, London and Switzerland, the novel reveals the secret history of a reclusive artist, a monomaniacal collector, and the art dealer caught between them. Ms available April 2024.

A darkly enthralling novel of theatre and mystery, perfect for fans of Susanna Clarke and Neil Gaiman

‘Witty and dark... A wonderfully strange and quirky tale about the power of penning and performing tales.’ – Kirkus Reviews

‘Carey draws on fairy tales and Shakespeare for a dazzling bildungsroman... Affirms the author’s standing as a major literary talent.’ – Publishers Weekly, starred review

‘An eccentric atmosphere, a macabre sense of humour, we experience this story with a sense of youthful joy.’ – Olga Tokarczuk, on LITTLE

Norfolk, 1901. England’s queen has died, and her aging son has finally taken the throne. In Norwich, bright young Edith Holler spends her days among the eccentric denizens of the crumbling Holler Theatre. In fact, she has never left the building, warned by her domineering father that the playhouse will tumble down if she ever leaves its confines.

Fascinated by tales of the city she knows only from afar, she decides to write a play of her own: an adaptation of the legend of Mawther Meg, a vicious figure said to have used the blood of children to make the local delicacy known as Beetle Spread. But when her father suddenly announces his engagement to a peculiar, imposing woman named Margaret Unthank, heir to the Beetle Spread fortune, Edith scrambles to protect her father, the theatre, and her play – one thing that’s truly hers – from the newcomer’s sinister designs.

Teeming with unforgettable characters – including the whole cast of the theatrical Holler family and the theatre bear – and illuminated by Edward’s trademark fantastical illustrations, EDITH HOLLER is a surprisingly modern fable of one young woman’s struggle to escape her family’s control and in so doing to craft her own creative destiny.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Edward Carey is an acclaimed artist-novelist whose debut OBSERVATORY MANSIONS was sold in 15 languages and was described by John Fowles as ‘proving the potential brilliance of the novel form’. Born in England, he teaches at the University of Austin, Texas.

Edward’s most recent work of fiction was the haunting and beautiful novella, THE SWALLOWED MAN, and before that his extraordinary novel, LITTLE, a tour de force of art, revolution, love and memory, has now sold over 100,000 copies in 20 languages.

A Memoir of Poverty, Nature and Resilience

Natasha Carthew

'At times roaring, visceral and exclusive, in turn gentle, embracing and inclusive, but always driven by hope and determination' – Raynor Winn, author of THE SALT PATH

'Haunting and powerful, a book about the sea and the power of belonging' – Kate Mosse

Shortlisted for the Nero Book Awards 2023

Natasha Carthew was born into a world that sat alongside picture-postcard Cornwall, one where second homes took the sea view of council properties, summer months shifted the course of people's lives, and wealth converged with poverty on sandy beaches.

In the rockpools and hedgerows of the natural world, Natasha found solace in the beauty of the landscape, and in the mobile library she found her means of escape. In UNDERCURRENT she returns to the cliff paths of her childhood, determined to make sense of an upbringing shaped by political neglect and a life defined by the beauty of nature.

This is a journey through place, and a vivid story of hope, beauty and fierce resilience.

In 1338, Jeanette, young cousin to King Edward III, travels to Antwerp with the royal court and falls for Thomas Holland, a young knight hoping to restore his family’s sullied reputation. Driven by passion and necessity, Thomas and Jeanette secretly marry but are almost immediately forced apart by war and circumstance.

Led to believe Thomas is dead, Jeanette is persuaded by her mother into marrying Lord William Montagu, heir to the Earldom of Salisbury. When Thomas returns and demands Jeanette back, Montagu refuses, and the fight begins. Against a tumultuous backdrop of high chivalry, deadly warfare, devastating plague and savage rivalry, Jeanette must stand her own ground and make her choice.

Chadwick yet again casts fresh light on a historical character and readers will thrill to the story of Jeanette, known to history as Joan of Kent.

An incisive and nourishing debut novel about grief, family, friendship and food, for fans of CRYING IN H MART and CONVERSATIONS WITH FRIENDS

When Jess's mother dies, leaving her family adrift, Jess looks to her friends for support and sympathy: there's Lucy, the childhood best friend who she'd lost touch with but who reappears and cares deeply about Jess and her mum; Gina, the motormouth party girl who can only make time for a quick cocktail or an emoji-laden message, and definitely not for the heart-to-heart that Jess craves; JP, the work friend who always shows up, but balks at discussing emotions; and Mei Ling, the newest of Jess's friends – the one who really gets her – but who disappears when she's needed most.

As Jess slowly picks herself up and tries to embrace her new job as a restaurant critic, she navigates the choppy waters of love, loss and friendship, and works out who really matters when the worst happens...

HAVE YOU EATEN? is a refreshingly honest and clever take on friendship and grief, peppered with a deep love for family and food.

A sweeping, spellbinding novel with shades of Gabriel García Márquez and Carlos Ruiz Zafón

Lisbon, 1954. In the Military History Archives a mysterious figure steals the Last Will and Testament of Garoto Bárbaro de Castro, a man born into slavery in Mozambique in 1800.

Through the many pages of the testament and the unfolding story of the objects Garoto has bequeathed, we learn about his remarkable and often brutal life, and the many other lives somehow connected to his – including that of his descendent Nuno Bárbaro de Castro, the archival thief. The violence of centuries of slavery and war does not stay buried, and the effects of the past echo in the lives of apparently disconnected people all over the world – in Angola, in Cuba and in Louisiana’s Angola prison.

Spanning four hundred years in its gripping and colourful narrative, THE WRECKERS examines the consequences of prolonged civil war in Angola, and the long-term impact of slavery on both sides of the Atlantic.

An unforgettable interwoven narrative and a triumphant return, a decade on from Clark’s acclaimed first novel THE RAW MAN (UK: Jonathan Cape, 2011).

Praise for THE RAW MAN:

‘An extraordinary novel, and a work of rare conception, bringing together, within one individual, the painfully conflicted history of southern Africa.’ – Brian Chikwava

‘This dark, graceful novel challenges all the conventions. The result is mythic, dark and oracular.’ – Adam Johnson

‘The wonderful, poetic voice, at once fantastic and realistic, stands out from contemporary African literature.’ – Alain Mabanckou

‘Potent and strange.’ – Jonathan Barnes, Literary Review

Heart-wrenching story of sisterhood, sacrifices and secrets, set on an idyllic Greek island and perfect for fans of Victoria Hislop and Karen Swan

Hydra, the picturesque Greek island, is a paradise for most, yet for sisters Ella and Georgia, it is a place where their darkest secrets dwell. And now the time has come for them to confront their past as they return to Greece to scatter their mother's ashes.

Ella is haunted by a love song that was written for her by the man who broke her heart years earlier and she longs to find peace so she can move on with her life.

Georgia pretends everything in her life is perfect, but she is plagued with guilt. If what she's kept hidden for decades was revealed, their family would never be the same again.

AND THEN THERE WERE NONE meets THE LAST BREATH in this tense and suspenseful locked-room thriller

On a boat heading out into the North Sea, Ellen Brooke steels herself to spend almost a month locked inside a hyperbaric chamber with five other divers. They are all being paid handsomely for this work - to be lowered each day inside a diving bell to the sea bed, taking it in turns to dive down and repair oil pipes that lie in the dark waters. It is a close knit team and it has to be: any error or loss of trust could be catastrophic.

All is going to plan until one of the divers is found unresponsive in his bunk. He hadn't left the chamber. It will take four more days of decompression, locked away together, before the hatch can be opened. Four more days of bare steel, intrusive thoughts, and the constant struggle not to give way to panic. Mind games, exhaustion, suspicion, and, most of all, pressure. And if someone does unlock the door, everyone dies...

'Throughout, he proves an author confident of his storytelling skills, and rightly so.' - Nick Duerden, i

Bright and precocious ten-year-old Kwame Akromah knows how to behave. He knows the importance of good manners, how to stay at the top of the class and out of the way when his parents are angry with each other. But when his charismatic cousin Yaw arrives from Ghana to live with the family while he looks for work, the rules Kwame has learned about the world can no longer guide him.

Twenty years later, Kwame is a secondary-school teacher, popular with his students and depended on by his friends. His is a life spent elegantly weaving between the classroom, the labyrinth of Grindr politics and increasingly intermittent visits to his parents' home. Behind the confident façade, however, he is as driven by caution as he was as a boy.

But when electrifying Marcus Felix is appointed as headteacher, Kwame must reckon with himself as he never has before. Can he face the ghosts of his childhood? How will he learn to move through the world without losing who he is? And where does existing stop and living begin?

GROW WHERE THEY FALL is a beautifully written, spirited and deeply moving novel about a young man finding the courage to expand the limits of who he might become, from the acclaimed author of HOLD.

HOLD (UK: 4th Estate, US: Picador, Germany: Nautilus), Michael's debut novel, was shortlisted for the Desmond Elliott Prize 2019 and longlisted for the Dylan Thomas Prize 2019. Moving between Ghana and London, HOLD is an intimate coming-of-age novel. It's a story of friendship and family, shame and forgiveness; of learning what we should cling to, and when we need to let go.

Much anticipated, THE STORY SPINNER is another engrossing, sure-fire bestseller from ‘the acknowledged queen of the historical time-slip novel’ (Daily Mail).

Why can Cadi hear the sound of Roman centurions despite the centuries that separate her from the Roman occupation? Is it connected to the mysterious meadow that borders her garden?

When the meadow is earmarked for a housing development, Cadi, along with the other inhabitants of the Welsh village where she lives, are determined to fight it. They soon discover that the meadow was the site of a Roman villa – could this explain the otherworldly sounds and visions Cadi’s been experiencing?

Cadi’s search for answers will reveal a connection between her and one of the villa’s previous inhabitants, Elen – a Welsh princess who is married off to an austere Roman general when she is only a girl. And in her own time, Elen has problems of her own – including the trials of her new position, doom-laden prophecies and a husband intent on ruling the entire Roman Empire...

An exceptional first-of-its-kind memoir about working as a home carer, won at auction by Fig Tree

EVERY KIND OF PEOPLE is a compassionate, warm-hearted and profound book that stands alongside works about medical care like Christie Watson's THE LANGUAGE OF KINDNESS, but with its beautiful writing it will also appeal to fans of memoirs like THE OUTFRAN and THE SALT PATH.

Anxious and burnt out, Kate has left a senior role in the National Health Service and is looking for a new, less stressful job. Believing she's found this in care work, she signs with an agency and is soon plunged into a challenging and eye-opening new world.

Facing low pay, long journeys between homes and pressurised thirty-minute visits, all combined with the shocking onset of the Covid-19 pandemic, Kate soon realises the job is about far more than washing, feeding and dressing vulnerable, often lonely men and women. They are people who have much to teach her too.

At the same time Kate is also caring for Greg, a seriously ill friend who is living on the fringes of society. Sometimes stretched to the limit, she comes to realise that in the midst of it all, she has found her vocation, that care work can be joyful too, and that to care is the most important thing of all.

Kate's story has a deep humanity at its heart, a crucial message shared with the sure touch of a natural writer. EVERY KIND OF PEOPLE is her first book and has already struck chords with many readers in the publishing community – and promises to be a striking title for 2024, published with a major campaign by Fig Tree.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Kathryn Faulke is a pseudonym. The author was runner-up in the Wasafiri International New Writing Prize and won the Mslexia Memoir Prize for an earlier version of EVERY KIND OF PEOPLE.

She is now working on her next book, about working in nursing homes on the Norfolk coast, and rediscovering the natural world of her childhood.

THE ENGLISHMAN SERIES

Dan Raglan – a rogue Englishman who served in the French Foreign Legion. Skilled, experienced, but unaccountable – and sometimes unpredictable.

THE ENGLISHMAN series is 'electrifying proof that high-tension international thrillers are back – and with an absolute vengeance.' – William Shaw

In RESURRECTION, somewhere in the Sahara, on the desolate border between Sudan and Chad, a P51 Mustang slowly emerges from the dunes. Inside, the skeletal remains of a man missing for three decades. His flying jacket bears no insignia, a worn leather attaché case lies by his side, held securely by a manacle around his left wrist. Inside a document men will kill for. Die for.

The sands of time have shifted, and whoever finds that aircraft finds information that could expose the most valuable spy the UK intelligence service has ever known.

The British, the French, and the Russians are on the trail. And so is Raglan.

David Gilman is currently writing a stunning new historical standalone, THE KNIFE MAKER'S APPRENTICE (Bloomsbury, 2025), taking readers from the south coast of England to Venice (more on following page).

Striking new standalone from the author of the Master of War and Englishman series

1604. Twenty-year-old blacksmith Richard Sheriff is a magnet for trouble, his fierce sense of justice spurring him to speak up for – and fight for – the defenceless. His older sister Elizabeth secures his release from the local jail, but then they are both seized by Barbary Pirates, along with their fellow townsmen and women. It is Richard's worst nightmare. When he was a boy, his fisherman father took him on an expedition to the Newfoundland fishing grounds. During the crossing a violent storm smashed the vessels and his father drowned trying to save his son. Now Richard's greatest terror is the sea.

Brother and sister find themselves captives, dragged from place to place as the pirates venture on, from the cosmopolitan city of Tunis to Venice. There Richard is separated from Elizabeth but finds that his training as a smith sets him apart from the other prisoners, ensuring his survival. Labouring in a plague-diminished forge, he learns how to craft exceptional knives that are soon sought after by wealthy Venetians.

But Venice is a city of ghosts, of intrigue and corruption, secret police and patriarchal wealth. Infested by the Inquisition and superstition, a city bound together by the labour of enslaved men and women. It is here that fate brings Richard – and those in his life – into mortal danger.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

David Gilman was a soldier before becoming an award-winning screenwriter and bestselling novelist. He has also written fiction for young adults (The Danger Zone trilogy and MONKEY & ME). In addition to the bestselling historical adventure Master of War series starring stonemason turned knight Thomas Blackstone, and the acclaimed contemporary series THE ENGLISHMAN, he is the author of the striking historical standalones THE LAST HORSEMAN, shortlisted for the Wilbur Smith Prize 2017, and NIGHT FLIGHT TO PARIS, an exciting World War II thriller.

Head of Zeus have sold more than 700,000 copies of David Gilman's books.

THE BERLIN TRILOGY

Jenny Glanfield

An epic trilogy chronicling the lives of six generations of the Jochum family, owners of the luxurious Hotel Quadriga in Berlin

From its opening during the splendour of the imperial era, through the tragedy of the First World War, the wild abandon of the 1920s, to the dramatic rise of Hitler and the tearing down of the Berlin Wall, the Hotel Quadriga is the background to an epic tale charting the fate and fortunes of three families whose lives are irrevocably entwined.

Book 1: THE HOTEL QUADRIGA (first published 1988)

In 1871, the nation of Germany is born. Karl Jochum, the son of a sweet maker, rises from humble beginnings to become the creator of Berlin's most luxurious hotel, the Hotel Quadriga. Behind its façade, the lives and loves of Karl, his wife Ricarda and their daughters, Viktoria and Luise, are enacted, together with the wealthy Kraus, and aristocratic von Biederstein families.

Book 2: VIKTORIA (first published 1989)

January 1933. From the balcony of the Hotel Quadriga, Viktoria Jochum-Kraus watches Hitler's stormtroopers march beneath the Brandenburg Gate, heralding the beginning of the Third Reich. Strong minded Viktoria has run the Quadriga for many years. But in Hitler's Germany, women have no place in business. Slowly, control slips from Viktoria's grasp. But Viktoria is an indomitable spirit and even as war wreaks devastation on the city, her courage never falters...

Book 3: CHILDREN OF THEIR TIME (first published 1994)

Stefan Jochum returns to Berlin in the Summer of 1945 to find Germany in ruins. Many of his family and friends are now dead, but his mother, Viktoria, has survived and is trying to rebuild her struggling business. As the Cold War accelerates, Stefan falls in love with a girl from East Berlin, an affair that will have far-reaching repercussions upon the lives of everyone connected with the couple.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Jenny Glanfield studied German at school and college and her first job was in Germany, after which she lived and worked in Paris, Austria and Italy, before marrying and settling in England, where her jobs usually used her German language skills. Following an arduous work trip to Germany, she realised there was a book inside her that needed to be written. That book eventually turned into three, forming The Berlin Trilogy.

LYNDALL GORDON

One of the world's foremost scholars and a hugely acclaimed biographer, in particular of the lives of literary women

Lyndall Gordon's ability to make the subjects of her biographies come vividly to life has won her many literary awards and acclaim.

In OUTSIDERS: Five Women Writers Who Changed the World, Lyndall Gordon tells the stories of five novelists—Mary Shelley, Emily Brontë, George Eliot, Olive Schreiner and Virginia Woolf—and how their creativity was linked to their lives as outsiders.

CHARLOTTE BRONTË: A Passionate Life won the Cheltenham Prize and was on the Sunday Independent bestseller list twice. Lyndall dismantles the insistent image of Charlotte Brontë as a modest Victorian lady, revealing instead a strong and fiery woman who shaped her life and transformed it into art.

In LIVES LIKE LOADED GUNS: Emily Dickinson and Her Family's Feuds, Lyndall explores the fissures in Emily Dickinson's family, the bitter feud that ensued, and the reasons for her legendary reclusiveness. Shortlisted for the Duff Cooper Prize 2010 and the Comisso Prize, Italy in 2013.

VIRGINIA WOOLF: A Writer's Life won the James Tait Black Prize for Biography. It sees Virginia as she saw herself, switching between memories and art to reveal an explorer of 'the infinite oddity of the human position'. Instead of the doom-and-death often imposed on women of genius, here is the robust walker and seeker for what was fertile in her intimacies, in women's nature, and in resistance to power.

About the Author

A much-celebrated biographer, Lyndall Gordon lives in Oxford. As well as the prizes above, she has been longlisted for the Samuel Johnson Prize for Non-Fiction for VINDICATION: A Life of Mary Wollstonecraft, which was a New York Times bestseller.

Lyndall Gordon's ground-breaking new book on T.S. Eliot, THE HYACINTH GIRL, is a revelatory work, published by Virago (UK) and Norton (US) in 2022, around the centenary of Eliot's great poem The Waste Land. It has been longlisted for the 2023 PEN/Jacqueline Bograd Weld Award for Biography. Her previous biographical work on T.S. Eliot, THE IMPERFECT LIFE OF T.S. ELIOT, won the British Academy's Rose Mary Crawshay Prize and Southern Arts prize, and she delivered the annual TS Eliot Lecture in 2023 at Merton College, Oxford. DEATH ON THE PROWL

(Campbell & Carter Contemporary Mysteries #8)

Jerry Harrison keeps himself to himself. He's never really been interested in other people – not even as a child. In fact, he's happier being alone, and enjoys his quiet life on the edge of the pretty village of Weston St Ambrose. However, one winter evening an unexpected visitor shows up on his doorstep and threatens to upend it all...

When the body of a brutally murdered man is discovered, the local police are left scrambling. Who was the victim? And why was he murdered in such a brutal way? There are certain things that don't seem right – like why take his passport but leave the more obvious valuables? It's up to Campbell and Carter to uncover the truth...

With her usual flair for characterisation and devious twists and turns, Ann Granger reveals the darkness lurking behind the Cotswold's chocolate box charms – the fact that people will do anything to recover what they see as rightfully theirs...

THE OLD ROGUE OF LIMEHOUSE (Inspector Ben Ross Victorian Mysteries #9)

It is the summer of 1871 when Scotland Yard's Inspector Ben Ross visits Jacob Jacobus: an infamous antiquarian, friend to villains and informer to the police. Ben is hoping to glean information about any burglaries that might take place during the London Season, but little does he know that a priceless family heirloom, the Roxby emerald necklace, has already been stolen and the widowed Mrs Roxby is demanding its immediate return.

Ben's day goes from bad to worse when he and his wife Lizzie hear that Jacobus has been found dead with his throat slit from ear to ear. Surely the two crimes cannot be connected? But with Ben's meticulous investigative skills and Lizzie's relentless curiosity, it is only a matter of time before the tragic truth is revealed...

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Bestselling British crime author often compared to Agatha Christie with a range of series characters all featuring insightful characterisation and satisfying plotting. Ann has written over thirty murder mysteries, including the Mitchell & Markby Mysteries, the Fran Varady Mysteries, the Victorian Inspector Ben Ross and Lizzie Martin Mysteries and the Campbell and Carter Mysteries.

Published in 10 languages, she has had tremendous success in Germany with millions of copies sold and more than 30 appearances in the Top 5 bestseller lists.

Bittersweet exploration of identity and sacrifice, as an author confronts his – and his country's – past

A South African bestseller

Longlisted for the Sunday Times (SA) Literary Awards 2023

'Hilarious and heart-breaking, Hirson has the ability to evoke not just the city of his childhood, but his own thirteen-year-old voice and imagination of the world - with its perceptions, terrors and incomprehensions.' – William Kentridge

'Beautifully written, funny and deeply moving...a perfect memoir.' – Finuala Dowling

'A sensitive, poignant and beautifully written account.' – Daily Maverick

A literary gem, to be published by Pushkin Press in the US in April 2024 and the UK in June 2024.

Witty and deeply poignant, MY THIRTY-MINUTE BAR MITZVAH is an account of one man being confronted by his past and, ultimately, how his daughter proved to be the key in understanding his own father.

Recreating 1960s Johannesburg through his adolescent eyes, bestselling South African author Denis Hirson gradually reveals the details of his extraordinary 13th birthday as he explores the familial and political divisions in Apartheid South Africa that weighed on him and his developing consciousness of his Jewish heritage.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Denis Hirson is a South African writer and lecturer now living in Paris. He is the author of seven books, almost all of them at the frontier between prose and poetry and concerned with the memory of South Africa at the time of apartheid. These include THE HOUSE NEXT DOOR TO AFRICA (David Philip), as well as, from Jacana: WE WALK STRAIGHT SO YOU BETTER GET OUT THE WAY, the best-selling I REMEMBER KING KONG (THE BOXER), the poetry collection GARDENING IN THE DARK; the novel THE DANCING AND THE DEATH ON LEMON STREET (shortlisted for the Commonwealth Book Prize, 2012) and WHITE SCARS, a lyrical meditation on reading and its significance in our lives, which was runner-up for the South African Sunday Times Alan Paton Non-Fiction Prize in 2007.

A beautiful, empowering memoir about creating a family in the midst of chaos, and learning new ways to find happiness

Prizewinning Kerry Hudson is celebrated for her emotionally and politically powerful writing about growing up in poverty. In NEWBORN she asks: what next, after a childhood like hers? What hope is there of creating a different life for herself, let alone future generations?

In this exquisitely written, moving and inspiring memoir, we see how Kerry found love, what it took to decide to start a family of her own and how fragile every step of the journey towards parenthood was. All along the way, she faces obstacles that would test the strongest foundations, from struggles with fertility to being locked down in a Prague maternity hospital to a marriage in crisis. But over and over again, her love, hope, fight – and determination to break patterns and give her son a different life – win through and light her path.

'It was always going to be difficult to follow LOWBORN, but Kerry Hudson is Kerry Hudson and she has done it – cleverly, honestly, brilliantly' – Roddy Doyle

LOWBORN: Growing Up, Getting Away and Returning to Britain's Poorest Towns (UK: Chatto & Windus). Kerry Hudson is proudly working class but she was never proudly poor. The poverty she grew up in was all-encompassing, grinding and often dehumanising. Twenty years later, Kerry's life is unrecognisable. She's a prize-winning novelist who has travelled the world. But she often finds herself looking over her shoulder, caught somehow between two worlds. LOWBORN is Kerry's exploration of where she came from, revisiting the towns she grew up in to try to discover what being poor really means in Britain today and whether anything has changed.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Kerry Hudson was born in Aberdeen. Growing up in a succession of council estates, B&Bs and caravan parks provided her with a keen eye for idiosyncratic behaviour, material for life, and a love of travel.

Her first novel, TONY HOGAN BOUGHT ME AN ICE-CREAM FLOAT BEFORE HE STOLE MY MA (Chatto & Windus), was shortlisted for eight literary prizes, and won Scottish First Book of the Year. Kerry's second novel, THIRST, was shortlisted for the Green Carnation Prize and won the Prix Femina Etranger in France. Her first work of non-fiction, LOWBORN (2019) became a Times bestseller and was hailed as 'One of the most important books of the year' by the Guardian.

Kerry writes for publications including The New York Times, Guardian, Big Issue and is a columnist for The Herald and Press and Journal.

A spare yet haunting novel by a consummate stylist, probing the limits of love, hope, and forgiveness

For readers of Annie Ernaux, Gerbrand Bakker and Olga Tokarczuk.

‘Much of TRONDHEIM... is set in the I.C.U., a place of terrible dread... TRONDHEIM is dedicated to capturing the way it unfolds. The sensation of continual anxiety and continual boredom, the fits and starts of activity, are closely observed. Here, time and hope are united.’ – Katie Kitamura, New York Times

‘Cormac James’s writing is very assured, with a harsh poetic edge.’ – Rose Tremain

‘James’ delicate, incisive third novel captures with forensic accuracy the subtle tensions in the marriage... Pierre’s medical situation is acute and dramatic, but the women’s marital troubles, mundane and chronic, are the real subject of this extraordinary and meticulous little book. An X-ray picture of the subcutaneous breaks and sprains in a rocky relationship.’ – Kirkus, starred review

In Norway, thousands of miles from home, a student drops dead on the street. A passerby revives his heart, but he remains in a coma from which he may never wake.

His mothers rush across the continent to his bedside where they endure the strain of helpless waiting. As the tense hospital vigil continues day after day and they vacillate between extremes of hope, fear, and psychic pain, their troubled relationship is pushed to the edge, as each tries to cope in their own distinctive way.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Cormac James (real name Cormac McCarthy) was born in Cork, Ireland. A graduate of the UEA Creative Writing MA, he has published short fiction in Columbia, Phoenix Irish Short Stories, and The Dublin Review. He lives in Montpellier, France, with his wife and son.

Praise for THE SURFACING:

‘An austere pleasure to read.’ – Sarah Moss, The Guardian

‘Irish author James’ hypnotic North American debut that’s less a high-stakes adventure than a slow-burning psychological study... Meditative and spare, this is not a fast read but one worth the effort: underneath all the ice, there is real emotional depth.’ – Kirkus Reviews

Peter James returns with his 19th Roy Grace, tackling illegal puppy smuggling – though no dogs are harmed in the course of the novel!

‘Ruthlessly efficient entertainment. Pedigree fun.’ – The Times

When a young farmer confronts intruders in the middle of the night he has no idea that minutes later he will be left dying in a pool of blood. What’s more chilling is what the perpetrators were willing to kill for.

At the scene of the crime, Detective Superintendent Roy Grace soon realises this is no isolated robbery gone wrong but the tip of the iceberg of a nationwide crime wave, in which ruthless organised gangs are making more money from the illegal trade in popular dogs than from drugs. A trade which pits him up against some ruthless people who will kill anyone who gets in their way. Because where there is greed, there is murder.

Forty-eight hours to find her passion. Seven days to find his way back on stage. One chance to take a risk on love

'I absolutely loved it! Fran and Jae-seung's romance was an emotional journey full of warmth, humor and laugh-out-loud scenes, I couldn't put it down' – Carrie Elks

'K-poppin perfection! What a sizzling, soaring, brilliant love story!' – Zoe Folbigg

'A blend of humor and heart, not to mention the yearning you only experience in the throes of your favorite K-drama, STILL UNWRITTEN is a must-read for the fangirl inside us all!' – Jennifer Hennessy

If Fran doesn't nail this audition for a major TV role, she's officially done as an actress. She needs to tap into her inner seductress... who doesn't seem to exist.

Enter stage right: Jae-Seung.

To Fran, he's just her landlord's ridiculously hot nephew. To the rest of the world, he's lead singer of global sensation, JYNKS – and he's missing in action. Together, they embark on an international journey of discovery: Fran, to track down her estranged mother and unlock her tightly guarded heart; Jae-Seung, to continue (reluctantly) with his tour rehearsals.

The chemistry between them is off the charts. But Jae-Seung's life is in South Korea, under constant scrutiny and strict contracts. Would a fling unleash Fran's passion, or break the heart she's learning to open?

A fast-paced, forbidden romance for fans of Ruby Lang, Lindsey Kelk and Ali Hazelwood.

The Costa Book of the Year winner returns with an astounding hybrid-memoir, weaving together the personal and historic, the poetic and investigative

In this rich, lyrical hybrid memoir, Hannah Lowe goes in search of her Afro-Chinese aunt Nelsa, a herbalist and healer, brothel madam and renowned restaurant/nightclub hostess in 1950s/60s Kingston, Jamaica. THE WOMAN IN THE CHINESE COLLAR is at once a fascinating archival detective story, a poetic evocation of Jamaica and a haunting glimpse of an extraordinary woman's life.

It was a single portrait photograph of Nelsa that galvanised Hannah's search across time and space to recover a lost story of a woman making her way in a man's world. Politics, poverty, disability, sex work and crime combine in this narrative of diaspora and home, interrogating the multiple ways in which photographs hold meaning; the role of writing and research in tracing routes and roots and how to excavate the life of a marginalised woman when the archives are empty.

In November 2023, Hannah won the prestigious Eccles Centre Hay Festival Prize for her work in progress on THE WOMAN IN THE CHINESE COLLAR, giving her access to the invaluable Eccles Centre collection in the British Library for her remaining research.

'We were enthralled by Hannah Lowe's inventive approach to conjuring Nelsa, her Afro-Chinese Jamaican aunt. Remarkably, Lowe evokes Nelsa through a single portrait photo and along the way excavates other marginalised women whose lives are rarely noted in official archives.' — Judges of the Eccles Centre & Hay Festival Writer's Award

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Hannah Lowe was born in Ilford to an English mother and Jamaican-Chinese father. Her 2021 poetry collection, THE KIDS, won the Costa Book of the Year Award 2021. THE KIDS also won the Costa Poetry Award 2021, was shortlisted for the 2021 T.S. 'Mda writes from the inside with a rare combination of passion and truth that will connect with readers everywhere.' – Booklist

'Lyricism, vividness and dark, tragic wit have earned the author recognition here and in his homeland.' – Publishers Weekly

Master storyteller Zakes Mda takes us from Lesotho's Mountain Kingdom to Johannesburg, the City of Gold, through the fascinating history of Lesotho's vibrant famo music tradition and a cast of memorable characters.

Our mountain village minstrel is an innocent in a world of fierce musical rivalry. Still playing a humble concertina in The Time of the Accordion, the boy-child yearns to acquire his own accordion, and to win the attention of his musical heroes, and the admiration of all. But when he heads to the city he becomes entangled in a darker world of organised crime and vicious gangs, which coalesce – as they do in real life today – around the warring famo music groups. Focused with fierce ambition only on his art, he is blind to the truths of love right in front of him.

With the wanderer's story interwoven with the remarkable history of famo music, gang wars and the battle for control of illegal mines, WAYFARERS' HYMNS is a rich, resonant new work, a memorable meditation on questions of freedom, identity and artistry. Mda closes the novel with his classic grace note: The end is always a journey... And what a journey!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Zakes Mda is an acclaimed novelist, playwright and painter. He divides his time between South Africa and his work as Professor of Creative Writing at Ohio University. He has been the recipient of major awards including the Hurston/Wright Legacy Award, the Sunday Times Fiction Prize, the Commonwealth Writer's Prize and South African Silver Order of Ikhamanga for Excellence in Arts and Culture.

THE HEART OF REDNESS and WAYS OF DYING are often cited as among South Africa's Top Ten classics and almost all of Mda's works are optioned for TV and film. THE ZULUS OF NEW YORK was longlisted for the 2021 Sunday Times Fiction Prize (SA). Recent deals in international markets for his novels include Italy and China.

Tense and gripping psychological thriller from the bestselling author of WHAT MOTHER WON'T TELL ME

A young actress slips into the most dangerous role of her life...

Every night has its children. Creatures like him who creep around lit-up houses in search of prey. Using the telephoto lens from a safe distance. Once a month the shadow appropriated a new territory. An area he didn't know, a new street. He became seriously addicted. Until he saw Mia. And stayed forever.

Mia Richter, a young upcoming actress from Berlin, has had many romantic dates in the past. But this time it is different. The admirer from the museum, with whom she has only been out once, does not accept that she is not interested in him. He stalks her day and night. Until suddenly the corpse of a friend is found on the canal bank. Mia immediately suspects who the killer is. But the police do not believe her. So she starts to investigate on her own to prove his guilt. But to do so, she must slip into the most dangerous role of her life: the stalker's lover...

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

A dead hiker, a big cat, a missing accomplice to a daring robbery gone wrong: another gripping investigation for Meyer's iconic duo Benny and Vaughn

10 Weeks at #1 on the South African Bestseller List

Now a blockbuster South African original series on MNET

'Deon Meyer should be on everyone's reading list.' – Michael Connelly

'Meyer is not just South Africa's greatest crime writer, he's up there with the best in the world.' – Marcel Berlins, The Times

'A well-crafted blend of suspense, culture, and humor. Meyer is terrific.' – Kirkus Reviews on THE DARK FLOOD

Benny Griessel and Vaughn Cupido are languishing doing run-of-the-mill police work in Stellenbosch, the university town a far cry from their old life in the elite HAWKS unit. But when a student is found dead on a mountain trail, they are faced with a stubbornly difficult mystery.

In the north of the country, a beautiful wildlife guide is recruited by a group of special forces soldiers to act as a honeytrap, part of a dangerous multi-million-dollar heist that goes tragically wrong. While back in Stellenbosch, a local businessman is found murdered in what looks like a professional hit – suffocated by fast-action filler foam sprayed down his throat. A message to keep silent – but about what?

You'd need a cool head to unravel it all, because sadly, the criminals are as likely to be in government - or even the police – as on the streets. You need to stay calm, focused - and sober. Benny may be sober these days, but he's not feeling calm. Solving this puzzle is turning into a deadly race against time and there's another date that's coming towards him like an express train. Alexa has fixed the date for their wedding. Big trouble, on every front.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Deon Meyer's books are sold in 30 countries and 28 different languages, and have been awarded many prizes around the world: the Deutsche Krimi Prize in Germany, the ATKV Prize in South Africa, and Le Grand Prix de Littérature Policière and Le Prix Mystère de la Critique in France. THE DARK FLOOD was given the Adult Fiction prize at the 2021 SA Book Awards, and was longlisted for the 2022 CWA International Dagger. COBRA was shortlisted for the 2015 CWA International Dagger, THIRTEEN HOURS was shortlisted for the 2010 CWA International Dagger, and HEART OF THE HUNTER was longlisted for the 2005 IMPAC Prize and is a Netflix Original film released in March 2024.

THE CONFESSION ROOM

Lia Middleton

Dark, high-concept thriller about a killer who's posting their crimes online before committing them, for fans of CJ Tudor and Karin Slaughter

'A high concept story from talented criminal barrister Middleton... The story bristles with dread and threat – it is not for a dark autumn night.' – Daily Mail

'Lia Middleton has crafted the most unsettling and unique of premises, utilising the anonymity of the Internet to build tension. Mixing serial killer crime and edge-of-your-seat mystery, it's a book that's absorbing and chilling in equal measure.' – Culturefly

'Gripping' – Lisa Howells, Heat Magazine, 4 star review

Emilia left the police force a year ago after the murder of her sister. She's now a private investigator, obsessed with online true crime forums, particularly The Confession Room, a place for anonymous atonement.

Some people confess to affairs, others to stealing. Some admit deep, dark wishes. But one day, a confession is posted that nobody expects: murder. And not just one named victim, but two.

Emilia realises that the murder hasn't yet happened and she must race against time to stop a killer. When her own name is posted on the forum, she knows that they're coming for her next...

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Lia Middleton is a barrister who specialises in crime and prison law, and lives with her husband and two young children in Buckinghamshire.

Also available is Lia's first novel, WHEN THEY FIND HER, which was an Apple Books Number 1 bestseller, garnered high praise from reviewers and received over a thousand 4 and 5 star reviews on Amazon.

Lia is now writing her fourth book for Penguin, WHAT THE WIFE KNEW.

Escape to the Isle of Skye this summer with the million-copy bestselling author, and lose yourself in the first book of the Skye Sisters Trilogy

‘Sue’s novels are the perfect escape. You’re guaranteed a warm and sunny read whatever the weather.’ — Bella Osborne

A Scottish island. A stranger from the mainland. A summer of possibilities... A chance encounter is about to change everything for Thea Wynter.

The moment she arrived on the Isle of Skye, running from a succession of wrong turns, life changed for Thea: here, she feels at peace. As head gardener at Rothach Hall, life is exactly how she wants it, with her days spent working in the glorious clifftop garden and her evenings in the cosy village pub. But an encounter with a stranger from the mainland brings with it an unexpected turn – and she is left wondering whether he is friend or foe.

It seems that even on Skye, life can catch up with you, and Thea is soon faced with the past she left behind – and with it, the family she’s never met... From old lives to new beginnings, lose yourself on the beautiful Isle of Skye with Thea as she discovers how many possibilities life can truly hold if you look hard enough.

Joseph O'Connor

A gripping novel of near-miraculous beauty – Irish #1 Bestseller, more than 100,000 copies sold

An Irish No.1 for 4 weeks in a row
 Shortlisted: Eason An Post Irish Novel Award 2023
 Longlisted: Dublin Literary Award 2024
 Longlisted: Walter Scott Prize for Historical Fiction 2024
 An Irish Times 'Books to look forward to in 2023' pick
 A Washington Post Book of the Year 2023
 Featured on BBC2's Between the Covers
 One of the most borrowed books from Kerry Library in 2023

'A spectacular, thrilling novel' – Peter Kemp, The Sunday Times, 'Paperbacks of the Week'

September 1943: German forces occupy Rome. SS officer Paul Hauptmann rules with terror, while an Irish priest, Hugh O'Flaherty, dedicates himself to helping those escaping from the Nazis. His home is Vatican City, the world's smallest state, a neutral, independent country in Rome where the occupiers hold no sway. Here Hugh brings together an unlikely band of friends – 'the Choir' – to hide the vulnerable under the noses of the enemy.

But Hauptmann's net begins closing in on the Escape Line and the need for a terrifyingly audacious mission grows critical. By Christmastime, it's too late to turn back.

Based on an extraordinary true story, Joseph O'Connor has created an unforgettable novel of love, faith and sacrifice, and what it means to be truly human in the most extreme circumstances. One for those who love absorbing narratives like BIRDSONG and ALL THE LIGHT WE CANNOT SEE.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Joseph O'Connor is the author of many novels, short story collections and works of non-fiction, as well as film and radio scripts and stage-plays. International bestseller STAR OF THE SEA sold more than a million copies and was published in 38 languages.

His previous novel, SHADOWPLAY (2019), was a Richard and Judy Winter 2020 pick and was shortlisted for the Walter Scott Prize, the Dalkey and Costa Novel Prizes, among others. It won Novel of the Year at the An Post Irish Book Awards. The French edition was shortlisted for the Jean Monnet Prize and it is optioned for film.

Joseph O'Connor holds an honorary Doctorate in Literature from University College Dublin and received the Irish PEN Award for Outstanding Contribution to Irish Literature in 2012.

Harvill Secker will publish AIRPLAY, selected essays by Joseph O'Connor, in 2026.

SPARKS OF BRIGHT MATTER

Leeanne O'Donnell

Filled with vivid, unforgettable characters, ideal for fans of Liz Hyder, Stacey Halls, Susanna Clarke and Imogen Hermes Gowar

'Thrilling and intoxicating – a dazzling debut.' – Evie Woods, author of THE LOST BOOKSHOP

'A captivating story, weaving together so many emotions with such beautiful descriptions that you really are standing by the shoulder of the characters.' – Philip Paris, author of THE LAST WITCH OF SCOTLAND

When ambitious apprentice chemist and secret alchemist Peter Woulfe is tasked with caring for a mysterious illustrated book, the Mutus Liber, he quickly realises that the grimy underworld of Georgian London is even more dangerous than he first believed.

Soon the book is stolen by the light-fingered Sukie and Peter finds himself being pursued by threatening men who are willing to do anything to get the book back. Where in teeming London might Sukie be found? Why is Peter so enthralled by her? And what is it about the Mutus Liber that is so enticing? As the search for the book becomes an urgent game of cat and mouse, it seems that the key to Peter's present dilemma might only be found in half-remembered events from his childhood, and then further back still, in the mists of Irish myth.

A spell-binding and unputdownable tale about spirit and matter, love and lust, and reality and magic.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Leeanne O'Donnell was born in Dublin and now lives in an old farmhouse on the foothills of a mountain in the remote south west of Ireland. SPARKS OF BRIGHT MATTER was inspired by the magic of the mountain where she lives and the whispers of the ancient stories buried in the surrounding landscape. Leanne started her storytelling career working in radio with RTE and BBC – and has made a number of award winning documentaries for RTE's Doc on One series.

Izzy is in the Caribbean on the honeymoon-that-isn't after her fiancé broke her heart. She's not looking for someone new. But when she meets Charles Miller, a successful writer holidaying alone, the electricity is undeniable. And what does she have to lose? Soon she'll be home in Dublin, rebuilding her life.

In Ireland, Charles's ex-wife and agent Ariel flits from party to party, glamorous and poised (on the outside, at least). She's always in touch with Charles. Though they're divorced, they're very close. Ariel wonders if they should get back together. She's a strong, independent woman, but she liked being part of a power couple. Surely she only has to say, and they'll pick up where they left off?

No matter how in control of life you think you are, it can shock and surprise you. As Izzy, Ariel and Charles are about to find out...

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Sheila O'Flanagan is an international bestselling author, with more than 9 million copies sold. Numerous novels have been immediate and long-lasting No 1s in Ireland and UK Top 10 Sunday Times Bestsellers and she is widely published around the world. Gripping storylines and emotional heft in gritty 1970s Glasgow from acclaimed Edgar Prize winner

‘A remarkable series – read them all.’ – The Times

‘Bloody and brilliant’ – Louise Welsh (on BLOODY JANUARY)

‘Pitch-black Tartan noir: bleak, but with an emotional heart that’s hard to ignore.’ – Daily Mail (on FEBRUARY’S SON)

‘Manoeuvring through the mean streets of Glasgow, the morally ambiguous, deeply flawed McCoy makes an ideal antihero.’ – Publishers Weekly (on BOBBY MARCH WILL LIVE FOREVER, Edgar Prize Winner 2022)

‘Altogether one of the best police thrillers of the last few years.’ – Morning Star (on THE APRIL DEAD)

A lost child. Two men dead, and counting... A midsummer nightmare.

A woman enters Glasgow’s Possil Park police station to report her son missing, but no record can be found of the boy. When Detective Harry McCoy, seconded from across town, discovers the family is part of Glasgow’s cultish Church of Christ’s Suffering, he suspects there is more to Michael’s disappearance than meets the eye.

Meanwhile there are reports of a series of poisonings of homeless men. Men who few barely notice, let alone care about – but, as McCoy is painfully aware, among this desperate community is his own father. And even as McCoy searches for the missing boy, he must conceal from his colleagues the real reason for his presence at Possil – to investigate corruption in the station. Some folk pray for justice. Detective Harry McCoy hasn’t got time to wait.

Engrossing WWII thriller featuring a war-wounded ex-cop, by the author of the acclaimed McCoy series

‘One of the great Scottish writers.’ – The Times

‘Alan Parks is in the same league as Ian Rankin and Louise Welsh.’ – Sarah Pinborough

‘Alan Parks, like the best writers, makes you keenly aware of all the pain out there and then (almost) alleviates it.’ – Mark Sanderson, The Times

March 1941. Joseph Gunner, an ex-cop, arrives back in Glasgow, nursing a painful war wound and a painkiller addiction. His city is in chaos, suffering heavy bombing, and his old boss Drummond persuades him to help investigate a body found in the wreckage of a destroyed building. When the body turns out to be of a German, mutilated to disguise his identity, things get more complicated.

As Gunner investigates, another body appears and he discovers he’s not the only one with an interest in the dead men. Two undercover secret service men are also in Glasgow. When he helps one of them, the eccentric Nickerson, out of a jam, he tells Gunner there is a reason the men look so similar. They have been chosen because they look like Rudolf Hess. They are spare lookalikes.

With Nickerson’s help, Gunner uncovers a plot by a section of the British Establishment to end the war by appeasement via a meeting with Hess – a meeting so important that Hess is prepared to fly into Scotland. Gunner has to stop the meeting happening: Britain’s future is at stake. But the attempt might well cost him his life...

FIFTEEN WILD DECEMBERS

Karen Powell

1842. Stubborn, free-spirited Emily Brontë would like to stay at home forever, but her sister Charlotte has other ideas

Shortlisted for 2023 Nero Book Awards

A 'Best Historical Fiction Book for 2023' in The Times

'The book's lasting impression is not of melancholy but unquenchable vitality... Powell has served her heroine loyally.' – Financial Times

'To read Karen Powell is to be constantly delighted and intrigued; each sentence is so sharp, so shining.' – Elizabeth Macneal

'A graceful account of a life that treats its subject with the meticulous research and thoughtful handling it deserves.' – Helen Cullen, The Irish Times

Isolated from society, Emily Brontë along with her brother and four sisters spend their days inventing elaborate fictional realms or roaming the wild moors above their family home in Yorkshire. When the time comes for them to venture out into the world to earn a living, each of them struggles to adapt, but for Emily the change is catastrophic. Torn from the landscape to which she has become so passionately bound, she is simply unable to function.

To the outside world, Emily Brontë appears taciturn and unexceptional, but beneath the surface her mind is in a creative ferment. A violent phenomenon is about to burst forth that will fuse her imaginary world with the landscape of her beloved Yorkshire and change the literary world forever.

FIFTEEN WILD DECEMBERS is an evocative and affecting novel that deftly explores the imagination, liberty – physical, sexual, spiritual, imaginative – sisterhood, the pull of home, and the power of nature. It will be sure to be loved by Brontë fans and readers of historical fiction, including the novels of Maggie O'Farrell, Kate Atkinson, and Sarah Winman.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Karen grew up in Rochester, Kent. She left school at sixteen but returned to education in her mid-twenties, reading English Literature at Lucy Cavendish College, Cambridge. The waves are to die for at The Bay. It's a paradise they would kill to keep. THE BEACH meets Point Break in the thriller of the summer by Allie Reynolds

'If you like your thrillers fast-paced, nail-bitingly tense and set in unnervingly isolated locations, then THE BAY by Allie Reynolds is the book for you!... Packed full of twists and turns, I found it unputdownable – loved it!' – Sarah Pearse

'This fast-paced, suspenseful thriller with undertones of 'Survivor' contrasts an idyllic landscape with its savage inhabitants. Recommend this to fans of Ruth Ware, Lucy Foley, and Sarah Goodwin.' – Booklist

Kenna arrives in Sydney to surprise her best friend, shocked to hear she's going to marry a guy she's only just met. But Mikki and her fiancé Jack are about to head away on a trip, so Kenna finds herself tagging along for the ride.

Sorrow Bay is beautiful, wild and dangerous. A remote surfing spot with waves to die for, cut off from the rest of the world. Here Kenna meets the mysterious group of people who will do anything to keep their paradise a secret. Sky, Ryan, Clemente and Victor have come to ride the waves and disappear from life. How will they feel about Kenna turning up unannounced?

As Kenna gets drawn into their world, she sees the extremes they are prepared to go to for the next thrill. And everyone seems to be hiding something. What has her best friend got involved in and how can she get her away? But one thing is rapidly becoming clear about The Bay: nobody ever leaves.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Searing and timely, an electrifying new novel by the author of THE MERMAID OF BLACK CONCH

‘Extraordinary... it pulsates with the rebel spirit of women’
 – Hannah Lowe

‘A bold rallying cry of a novel. Vital, enraging and brilliant. I loved it.’ – Sarah Winman

Monique Roffey is back with a striking new work – wrenching, fierce, tender and with an unforgettable cast of characters. When a young steel pan musician – female and foreign – is found dead the morning after Carnival, the victim-shaming response of the city’s mayor causes an outcry. An outcry that leads four very different women on the Caribbean island to spark an uprising, an unexpected revolution.

Praise for THE MERMAID OF BLACK CONCH:

Kydd series

Julian Stockwin

This action-packed series, set in the great age of fighting sail, stars a young wigmaker's son, Thomas Kydd, who is press-ganged to sea. In time he learns to love life on the ocean wave and rises through the decks as his adventures take him around the world

'Stockwin, a career navy man, writes of the nautical life with vivid authority.' – Kirkus Review

'In his hands the sea story will continue to entrance readers across the world.' – The Guardian

'YANKEE MISSION is a jewel in Julian Stockwin's crown as a master in naval fiction, with a ship-to-ship fight so vivid that the battle's sounds and scents fly off the pages like lethal wooden splinters' – Quarterdeck

'A very readable and enjoyable story... I can only recommend that you go out, beg, borrow or buy, and enjoy' – Bernard Cornwell (on TREACHERY)

In KYDD (1), Thomas Kydd is seized by the press gang to be a part of the crew of the 98-gun line-of-battle ship Royal William. The ship sails immediately and Kydd has to learn the harsh realities of shipboard life fast. Despite all the danger of tempest and battle he goes through, he comes to admire the skills and courage of the seamen – taking up the challenge himself to become a true sailor. 252 pages.

In ARTEMIS (2), Kydd, now a true Jack Tar, sails back to a hero's welcome in England after a ferocious battle against the French, when a family matter forces his return to Guildford. But the sea beckons irresistibly and Kydd manages to ship out again in his beloved Artemis – a voyage that will take him to the fabled East and present him with fierce new challenges. 380 pages.

THE ADMIRAL'S DAUGHTER (8) sees Kydd, now Captain of the HMS Teazer, caught in escalating tensions between England and France. Meanwhile an unlikely rival is seeking his heart: the beautiful and determined admiral's daughter could be the key to realising all Kydd's hopes and ambitions. But high society, he finds, can be as treacherous as his first mistress – the sea. 384 pages.

In the 26th title in the series, SEA OF TREASON, Kydd returns to England, after a savage wounding in America, to re-assume command of his ship-of-the-line, Thunderer. Sent to the remote station of Bermuda, Kydd and his crew are drawn into the intrigue and warring from the young USA attempting to seize Spanish Florida. 384 pages.

Kydd will return for the 27th and final time in ADMIRAL (October 2024).

A moving and poignant memoir of a concentration camp survivor who, now aged ninety-four, wants to tell her story of love, loss, courage and hope

Extraordinarily, Rene Salt (born Rywka Ruchla Berkowitz in Poland, 1929) was able to stay by her mother Salla's side throughout their entire five-and-a-half-year Holocaust experience.

From invasion to liberation, September 1939 to April 1945, as Rene was marched, herded and shoved from ghetto to camp, there was one constant, the hand which clutched hers – her mother's. Rene maintains that she is only alive today because of her mother, that it was the sheer force and power of her love that gave them both something fragile but beautiful to cling to in an ugly, depraved world. It was her mother who hid her, lied to the SS, went left when she was directed right... small actions with lifesaving consequences.

2025 will mark eighty years since the liberation of the concentration camps by the Allies during WW2, a significant anniversary where the last remaining survivors might still be alive to tell their stories. The urgency to capture these vital testimonies grows. Soon living history will pass into archive testimony. For Rene, the need to share has finally overcome the desire to forget. Kate will continue to interview Rene and visit the concentration camps herself in order to write Rene's story.

This isn't just a memoir. It's a love letter to Rene's mother that has been eighty years in the making...

Love, courage and resistance in a heart-warming and inspiring WWII novel set on the island of Jersey

‘One of the very best books I’ve read in a long time. A gripping, emotional rollercoaster and a true hymn to the power and spirit of novels.’ – Peter James

‘This is a story of bravery and the cost of small acts of defiance... simply outstanding!’ – Andie Newton

‘Another heartfelt story with her signature impeccable research and cast of wonderfully endearing characters. She is the master at writing books about both the power of books and the power of women.’ – Natasha Lester

From enchanting cliff tops and white sandy bays to the pretty cobbled streets of St Helier, Jersey is known as the land of milk and honey. But for best friends Bea Rose (the local postwoman) and Grace Le Motte (who works in the island’s only library) it becomes the frontline to everyday resistance when their beloved island is occupied by German forces in 1940.

Inspired by astonishing true events, THE WARTIME BOOK CLUB is an unforgettable story of everyday bravery and resistance, full of romance, drama and camaraderie and a tribute to the joy of reading and the power of books in our darkest hour.

THE LITTLE WARTIME BOOK CLUB reached No. 2 in the New Zealand charts and No. 18 in the Australian charts after its first full week on sale.

A stunning and heart-wrenching story of friendship and family, the perfect read for fans of Dani Atkins, Jojo Moyes and Marian Keyes

Ava is a firefighter. She finds comfort in reuniting salvaged items with their rightful owners from the blazes she and her colleagues attend.

Cassie's home has burned to the ground. She and her young daughter have no family to turn to, until Ava and her husband offer up their spare room.

Thrown together but kindred souls, the two women learn they both have roots in Ireland – it's where Ava's unknown birth mother gave her up for adoption, and where Cassie's estranged family live. Embarking on a journey to Ireland, they will discover that sometimes the family that matters most is the one they've found.

Through heartbreak, destruction, hope and love, Ava and Cassie's lives will be changed forever.

BEACH READ meets EMILY IN PARIS in this fresh and poignant romantic comedy

Twenty-six-year-old one-hit wonder novelist Rosie Watkins wants to get one thing straight: she is not running away. Has she sub-let her apartment in New York City? Yes. Has she deleted her social media so that no one besides her family knows what she's doing? Yes. Has she booked a one-way ticket to London? Also, yes. But that does not mean she's running away. She just needs... something new.

Hence, London. Maybe once she's there, she'll finally be able to get over everything the past year has thrown at her and move on with her life. Rosie quickly finds her footing with some new friends: magnetic Tara who might be secretly in love with her friend, Pat; Saoirse, a serial dater who doesn't believe in love and Deepti, who's navigating a career crisis that could change the course of her life. They all welcome Rosie with open arms – all except George: moody, arrogant, full-of-himself George, who just happens to think that Rosie is an “entitled, annoying, energetic American.” He also just happens to be Tara's twin brother – tall, dark, tattooed, super hot and definitely off limits.

But the more settled Rosie becomes in London, the more her past continues to haunt her. So, what exactly is Rosie hiding? Just how bad was that break-up back in the city? And can don't-even-go-there George be that someone to help her move on?

THE THERAPIST

Sara seems to have it all – a thriving practice as a counsellor, a beautiful home, a loving husband and two children. A world away from her troubled childhood and dark past. But she's the only one who knows that her entire life is built on a lie.

THE CLIENT

A new patient confesses to a crime that feels eerily familiar and Sara is thrown into a quest to hide the truth: from her family, her friends, her co-workers, and most importantly, the police.

THE CONFESSION

How can this client, Ella, possibly know about Sara's past? And how can Sara silence her before it's too late?

One thing is certain: Sara will do anything to keep her family safe. Even from herself.

Haunting work about being a writer and a walker, the knowing and unknowing of a complex city

‘An elegant, gentle, bitter-sweet ramble through the streets of Johannesburg with the incomparable Vladislavić.’

‘A bewitching meditation. A raw, literary, and heart-felt ode to life in Johannesburg.’ – Andrew Harding, author of A SMALL, STUBBORN TOWN

‘Ivan Vladislavić’s hand, not unlike that of Marlene Dumas, is unshaking as it paints silent, slow and highly vivid, almost cinematic, lines on the canvas of our shared Johannesburg.’
– Bongani Madondo

‘One of the best writers in the world... one of the great modern prose stylists.’ – Teju Cole

THE NEAR NORTH carries echoes of Ivan’s award-winning PORTRAIT WITH KEYS (US: Norton, UK: Granta), which Geoff Dyer described as ‘one of the most ingenious love letters – full of violence, fear, humour and cunning – ever addressed to a city’, but it is at the same time an entirely original and surprising work of quiet power.

THE NEAR NORTH is book about walking, cities, ghosts and trees, which also explores family, friendship and sudden loss. It feels like an intimate privilege to share the author’s thoughts and observations – wryly playful at times, fiercely serious at others – as he navigates his deeply divided city, closely examining its peculiar and moving signs, its demolition sites, felled trees, guerrilla gardens and fresh scars. Auto-fiction, travelogue, psychogeography – however you choose to describe it, THE NEAR NORTH is a book that will delight readers and win Ivan new admirers.

'Bridget Walsh does it again. THE INNOCENTS is pacy, captivating and accomplished and I loved it... More Minnie and Albert, please.' – Emma Styles

'More please! Bridget Walsh is a fresh and fabulous new voice in historical crime fiction.' – Elizabeth Chadwick

London, 1876. The Variety Palace Music Hall is in trouble, due in no small part to a gruesome spate of murders that unfolded around it a few months previously (see THE TUMBLING GIRL for more!).

Managing the music hall in crisis, Minnie Ward has her hands full, even without her complicated relationship with detective Albert Easterbrook – but when a performer's brother mysteriously goes missing, Minnie and Albert are thrown together once more. Then another body is found dead in a trunk, and a strange connection starts to emerge.

The crimes will propel the unlikely duo into the shady world of illegal gambling, dog fighting and monkey kidnappings as they trace things back to a tragedy that took place fourteen years ago, leaving 183 children dead. And given that the incident touched so many people's lives, the pool of suspects is very wide...

Timely literary thriller – a high-stakes battle for survival in the superbly-evoked High Arctic

Featuring a fierce and complex female central character, WHITE ROAD is a gripping read – a spectacular account of maritime disaster, but also a beautifully written story of escape and survival in the wastes of an Arctic winter.

While its early sections contain some epic action (think CHERNOBYL or THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE), the novel also has the evocative beauty and sense of landscape of MISS SMILLA'S FEELING FOR SNOW and ARCTIC DREAMS.

Carrie Essler is an ex-Navy rescue swimmer, now working for the Canadian Coast Guard. Transferred to a remote outpost after a bitter break-up, she finds herself in dire peril when an oil rig explodes in the Beaufort Sea. Carrie is presumed dead – but she is stranded on a small boat in a nightmarish landscape of oil-laced ice. With her is a dying man, a paralysed stranger she must try to save, and find a way back to civilisation for them both. An epic, heart-clenching struggle for survival ensues, written with great immediacy and often stark beauty.

But what caused the explosion? Accident or environmental terrorism? The injured man knows, but he's not talking. The rig's corporate director, Jim Ross, is Carrie's friend, but he is wrestling with both the catastrophic aftermath and his own guilty secrets. But it is only Ross who believes – against all evidence and odds – that Carrie is alive.

As the oil spills spreads, Ross battles to mount a rescue mission to find Carrie. But is his obsession merely a way to try to assuage his own culpability? And what real hope is there that she could have survived?

His literary historical debut THE CANNIBAL SPIRIT (Penguin Canada), was described as 'powerful, brave, ambitious' (The Globe and Mail), 'a thriller with a Joseph Conradian plot' (The Walrus), 'a unique work, compelling, complex, thought-provoking and impressive' (Quill and Quire).

A HISTORY OF WATER

Edward Wilson-Lee

Vivid narrative non-fiction with a flavour of THE NAME OF THE ROSE – poetry and history, murder and intrigue in 16th Century Portugal

Shortlisted for the James Tait Black Prize for Biography 2023

‘A very few times in the course of a reader’s life a book appears that shatters one’s assumptions about how and why things came to pass. A HISTORY OF WATER is one such book. A mind-blowing achievement.’ – Alberto Manguel

‘A truly engrossing read. Wilson-Lee has the rare knack of re-visiting even the most familiar places as if they were being discovered for the first time. His prose is rich, fluent, absorbing, and free from any affectation. He guides his readers through a kaleidoscope of detail, interrelating various themes with consummate skill... while remaining firmly rooted in the most meticulous yet unobtrusive scholarship.’ – Fernando Cervantes

A HISTORY OF WATER follows the interconnected lives of two men across the Renaissance globe. One of them – an aficionado of mermen and Ethiopian culture, an art collector, historian and expert on water-music – returns home from witnessing the birth of the modern age to die in a mysterious incident, apparently the victim of a grisly and curious murder.

The other – a ruffian, vagabond and braggart, chased across the globe from Mozambique to Japan – ends up as the national poet of Portugal.

The stories of Damião de Góis and Luís de Camões capture the extraordinary wonders that awaited Europeans on their arrival in India and China, the challenges these marvels presented to longstanding beliefs, and the vast conspiracy to silence the questions these posed about the nature of history and of human life.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Edward Wilson-Lee is a Fellow in English at Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, where he teaches medieval and Renaissance literature. After growing up in Kenya and Switzerland, he went to university in London, New York, Oxford and Cambridge, living briefly in Mexico and New Orleans in between.

His previous books SHAKESPEARE IN SWAHILILAND and THE CATALOGUE OF SHIPWRECKED BOOKS have been widely acclaimed, published in the UK and US, and translated into 11 languages. He is now writing THE GRAMMAR OF ANGELS (William Collins, 2025), completing his trilogy of Renaissance Knowledge, for which he has been granted a Guggenheim fellowship.

A witty and bookish romantic comedy set in the small lakeside town of Ehnita. A must-read for fans of Emily Henry, Abby Jimenez and Ali Hazelwood

Lucy Bowen has had enough of romance. After multiple failed relationships and an extreme lack of Prince Charmings lining up to date her, she's given up on the idea altogether... except she can't really do that because she works for NYC's biggest romance publisher, Heartwarming, and she's desperate for a promotion.

When Heartwarming's bestselling author Ruby Jones threatens to leave, Lucy's boss, Anne, must act fast. To show their commitment to Ruby (and maybe interfere with her romance-burnt-out assistant's life just a little bit), she sends Lucy on a research trip to a tiny lakeside town, Ehnita. Lucy reluctantly agrees to a month-long trip if there's a promotion at the end of it. But if she messes up, her whole career will be on the line...

Before long, Lucy realises that her secret mission to get close to the locals might not be as easy as she thought – especially when she meets her neighbour and local restaurant owner, Liam Miller, who, amongst other vaguely annoying traits, is extremely sceptical of city people. But before she can say cliché, Lucy finds herself living an actual small-town romance, complete with a quirky cast of characters and some undeniable chemistry between her and the town hunk.

As Lucy's time in Ehnita nears its end and a family emergency helps her put things in perspective, she's faced with some important decisions: should she tell Liam the truth about why she's really there? Is working in publishing as important to Lucy as it was before? Does she really want to go back to the city? And, might she finally have found love...?

HAPPILY EVER NOW is the perfect balance of swoonworthy romance alongside real life challenges, including the pressure of family expectations, imposter syndrome, and grief. Funny and tear-jerking in all the right places.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

LOOKING AT WOMEN LOOKING AT WAR: A WAR AND JUSTICE DIARY tells a story of Ukraine's civil society's quest for justice

Foreword by Margaret Atwood.

LOOKING AT WOMEN LOOKING AT WAR: A WAR AND JUSTICE DIARY is Amelina's deeply moving and highly anticipated posthumous gift to her country. It began as the war diary of a Ukrainian novelist turned war crimes researcher following Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine in 2022 and evolved into a story about a number of extraordinary women. It follows the paths of female journalists, human rights defenders, lawyers, and volunteers who document war crimes in Ukraine while the conflict is still ongoing.

Amelina described her book as 'detective story' in which she pursues not only the perpetrators but the quest for justice. The heroines of the book include Evgenia Zakrevska, a prominent lawyer turned soldier who helps to liberate towns in the Kharkiv region and participates in a historical trial online from the frontline, Oleksandra Matviychuk, who leads an initiative documenting tens of thousands of war crimes and wins a Nobel Peace Prize in 2022, and Yulia Kakulya-Danylyuk, the director of the Kharkiv Literary Museum who helps document the destruction of cultural heritage.

Every heroine has a connection to a prominent Ukrainian dissident or the so-called Executed Renaissance, a generation of Ukrainian writers killed by the Soviet regime in the 1930s. The stories of today's Ukrainians are thus interconnected with the dramatic history of the 20th century in the bloodlands.

LOOKING AT WOMEN LOOKING AT WAR combines elements of reportage, interviews and reflection, and is influenced by the work of Svetlana Alexievich and Ryszard Kapuscinski.

Victoria's reflections now carry an unbearable poignancy in the wake of her own death, killed by injuries sustained in a Russian missile strike as she dined in a pizza restaurant in Kramatorsk.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Victoria Amelina (1 January 1986 – 1 July 2023) was a Ukrainian novelist, essayist, poet, and human rights activist. DOM'S DREAM KINGDOM tells the story of a city with a dramatic history, where the silences about past wars and mass murders are so unbearable that only an abandoned dog can trace the secrets and “speak” for the people who still cannot speak for themselves

Finalist for the European Prize for Literature
Finalist for Lviv UNESCO City of Literature Prize

The story follows three generations of the family of an old Soviet military pilot – a Korean war veteran – who settle in a city once a cultural centre of Europe, a place variously called Lemberg, Lwów, Lvov, and Lviv. The apartment that this Soviet family has inhabited since the '70s is, by coincidence, the former childhood home of Stanislaw Lem. A Polish writer of Jewish origin, Lem is one of the few survivors of the Holocaust in Lviv, who leaves the city forever after World War II. Because it is hard, if not impossible, for the humans to talk about the city's complicated past and their own traumatic memories of Soviet and Nazi atrocities, it is a dog named Dom who accepts the challenge to pick up the pieces of the family story and Ukraine's history.

Through Dom's voice, Amelina presents a fresh perspective on critical issues such as the supposed east-west divide in Ukraine, themes of migration and displacement, Lviv's history as a major Polish and Jewish metropolis, its dark history with the Holocaust, and its multiple transformations over the tumultuous twentieth century.

‘By scrutinizing Ukraine’s foibles alongside its strengths, Mr. Chapeye reveals why these proud, defiant people captured the world’s attention two years ago, and why they deserve continued support.’ – Wall Street Journal

‘Chapeye represents a modern-day Ukrainian counterpart to classic American writers like Mark Twain or O. Henry, capturing the dignity and respect his characters might not get but nonetheless long for and deserve.’ – Los Angeles Review of Books

THE UKRAINE deliberately blurs the line between nonfiction and fiction, conjuring the essence of a beloved country through its tastes, smells, and sounds, its small towns and big cities, its people and their compassion and indifference, simplicities and complications.

The title story, ‘The Ukraine’, was published in The New Yorker in March 2022, the first piece of prose by a Ukrainian writer to appear in the publication, and was read on BBC Radio 4’s Book at Bedtime in October 2022. In it, Artem facetiously plays with the English misuse of the article “the” in reference to Ukraine, capturing a country as perceived from the outside, by foreigners. That pseudo-kitsch, often historically shallow, and not-quite-real Ukraine resonates because of its highly engaging and brutally candid snapshots of ordinary lives and typical places.

Kalaf is on a bus bound for Oslo where his band, Buraka Som Sistema, is due to perform at one of Europe's largest music festivals. But two border control agents become sceptical when he presents them with a Portuguese foreign residency card and an expired passport from an African country, Angola. As he sits in his cell waiting to be interrogated, Kalaf thinks about the events that have brought him there: why he was forced to travel by bus in the first place, and all the sacrifices he has had to make in the name of promoting Kuduro music – a dance music genre created in the streets of Luanda, Angola's chaotic capital.

Kalaf needs a European passport and Sofia helps him to get it by marrying him. Sofia is a white Portuguese anthropology student and a keen dancer. She was taught to dance by her stepfather, a black Angolan who fled to Lisbon after the fall of the Berlin Wall. Sofia's mother is a white returnee, forced to return to Lisbon along with 200,000 Portuguese-Angolans during the chaotic decolonisation process. Sofia inherited her passion for African music from her mother and stepfather and dreams of visiting Angola one day, a country she misses even though she's never been there.

Viking and Mari are the two Norwegian officers who arrested Kalaf. Having Kalaf's fate in his hands made Viking assess his own life: what if he leaves Europe to find Ava his first girlfriend, for whom he still has feelings, and who now lives in Beirut. Viking finds himself in the middle of the crowd at the Øya music festival. He looks up at the stage and sees the Angolan there, a free man. Viking wants to feel free too. He will fly to Beirut on the very next plane.

AVENUES BY TRAIN

A dizzying, immersive debut from one of Zimbabwe's most exciting new writers

Shortlisted for the Republic of Consciousness Prize

AVENUES BY TRAIN opens in 1974, with the news that yet another girl has been abducted by a water spirit in the small town of Miner's Drift. In the same incident another young girl, Natsai, is touched by the water spirit but manages to escape. The protagonist of the book, Jedza, is Natsai's younger brother, aged seven when we first encounter him in 1984. When Jedza later has a similar escape in a tragic incident involving a train and the death of his close boyhood friend, he is convinced that his life is haunted. He comes to believe that his life is stuck in a loop of hardship in Miner's Drift.

Jedza leaves for Harare in the hope that he will escape the darkness and superstitions of the small town. He instead discovers that the city has even deeper spiritual roots than Miner's Drift and the mysticism he encounters in the city leads him to come to terms with the spiritual forces in his bloodline and to eventually confront and resolve his traumatic past.

Inspired by the author's experience as a practising Catholic in his youth, the novel explores the conflict between Shona spiritualism and Christianity in urban contemporary Zimbabwe. With wry humour evident from its early chapters, this is a bildungsroman of sorts, where nostalgic childhood reminiscences are juxtaposed with scenes depicting the social and economic degeneration of the country, inspired by the author's experience living in The Avenues, a red-light district of Harare.

This eclectic, playful and experimental novel showcases a fresh new voice in contemporary African writing, recalling the fast-paced, riotous satire of Alain Mabanckou and Fiston Mwanza Mujila. Whilst paying homage to his literary heritage in this consciously intertextual novel, Mudzingwa pushes the boundaries of both content and form, with strands of magical realism running alongside hyper-realist immersion, shifts in perspective and time, and a multiplicity of different narrative voices and styles.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Farai Mudzingwa's short fiction has been published by Weaver Press, Kwani? and Enkare Review II and his longform articles and reporting have been featured in Chimurenga Chronic, The Mail & Guardian, The Johannesburg Review of Books, Africa Is A Country, This Is Africa, The Africa Report and New Humanitarian. An illuminating, timely work of reportage

In 2014, the Russian army, with support from local militants, occupied parts of Ukraine's two easternmost regions, Donetsk and Luhansk; regions that were the beating industrial heart of the socialist utopia in the Soviet era, and where coal extraction has exhausted both the human population and the natural resources. These regions have suffered from the post-Soviet chaos for decades.

In late 2016, the author set out on a research trip to the East to answer the common questions of those who've never been to the region. He takes his readers on a complicated, painful and hopeful trip across the Ukrainian East, guiding them through encounters with local citizens, archival research, and conversations with prominent cultural figures from the region, such as writer Serhij Zhadan and historian Ihor Kozlovskiy, held hostage and released after 700 days of captivity. Readers will encounter the miners, the Belgian and British investors who founded the eastern cities, the priceless coal, events of the First and Second World War, the bloody Soviet history, the activists who are now working to improve the country, and sweet memories of a lost paradise.

Oleksandr writes that he had never been to Eastern Ukraine until 2016, and wanted to better understand the part of his country where war was breaking out, investigating and debunking many of the stereotypes and myths about the region. His encounters with its inhabitants are varied and revealing, always narrated with great nuance and empathy.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Oleksandr lives in Kyiv and is one of Ukraine's foremost contemporary writers. He is the author of seven books and selected essays and excerpts from his books have been translated into ten languages. He is a member of PEN Ukraine.

THE LANGUAGE OF WAR

LETTERS FROM UKRAINE

Oleksandr Mykhed

A powerful collection of personal essays chronicling a year of the war in Ukraine

The story of a 34-year-old writer who has lost his home. Whose parents now live far away in another part of the country. Whose close friend has been killed in action in Donbas. Whose wife is volunteering. He is having nightmares and is unable to think of his past. But he has stories for the world to hear.

Already heralded as a classic in the making, this highly anticipated book combines essays, non-fiction narrative, and interviews with military personnel, volunteers and refugees from different regions of Ukraine, detailing their stories and experiences of living through the war. The central symbol of the book is the “language of war”. Oleksandr takes a close look at not only the changes taking place in the language during this full-scale invasion, but also its symbolic dimension. The way in which people express hatred for the occupier and how they show love for their country.

Essays included in the book have been published in the Financial Times, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, and in Ukrainian, French and Polish anthologies. Oleksandr’s first essay for the FT Weekend, published barely a fortnight after the invasion, elicited a global response, culminating in appearances on CNN and NPR. In December 2022, Oleksandr’s second essay ‘We will rebuild everything: war, loss and faith in Ukraine’ was the FT Weekend lead feature, and was described by FT Weekend Editor Alec Russell as ‘a stunning personal essay’.

Oleksandr’s work and personal story has been featured in the New Yorker, Dagbladet and BBC radio reports, and his words from the book became the epigraph for the New Yorker-produced documentary “The Liturgy of Anti-tank Obstacles” by Dmytro Sukholytkyy-Sobchuk (the film was screened at the Toronto International Film Festival and at the Sundance Film Festival). His theme of The Language of War and his powerful opening address to the Lviv International Book Forum in October 2022 was the inspiration for Michael Goldfarb’s BBC Radio 4 documentary, Ukraine: War and Words.

A claustrophobic, surrealist, queer gothic novel set in Edwardian London, exploring mother-daughter relationships, sexuality, class, colonialism and the body

‘Heather Parry is a literary star of the future.’ – Kirsty Logan, author of THINGS WE SAY IN THE DARK

Marguerite Périgord is locked in the attic of her family home, a disintegrating Chelsea house, with a Singer sewing machine, a copy of Mrs Beeton’s Book of Household Management and a taxidermied bat with the feet of a duck. She has been confined by her mother, Cécile, who is concerned about her engagement to an older, near-penniless solicitor and wishes to educate her daughter on proper married conduct, lest she drag the family’s good name into disrepute.

Marguerite’s weeks are punctuated by small but highly decadent meals brought by her mother, by letters from her betrothed and by her attempts to memorise the writings of Mrs Beeton, who knows everything there is to know about mainstream femininity and how to be a woman. When a carrion crow begins to nest in a hole in the attic, Marguerite befriends the creature and becomes jealous of its freedom, leading her to reappraise her situation and reconsider her mother’s intentions. How long has she been in the attic, why are her fiancé’s letters becoming more distant, and is the Périgord name really something to be so proud of?

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Heather Parry is a short story writer, novelist and editor. Her work has appeared in publications including The Stinging Fly, New Gothic Review, The Best of British Fantasy 2018 & 2019, and New Writing Scotland 35. Heather won the 2016 Bridge Award for an Emerging Writer, and was the recipient of the Cove Park 2017 Scottish Emerging Writer residency. She was a prize winner in the Mslexia Short Story Award 2018 and is a 2021 Hawthornden Fellow. Heather’s fiction explores self-deception, transformation, the grotesque and the body, and her non-fiction work is primarily concerned with power and politics. She lives in Glasgow and is a regular moderator at literary events, including the Edinburgh International Book Festival.

Her debut novel ORPHEUS BUILDS A GIRL (Gallic Books) was published to great acclaim in 2022, and was followed by a short story collection THIS IS MY BODY, GIVEN FOR YOU (Haunt Publishing) in 2023.

THE HA-HA

Tom Shakespeare

An entertaining romp through the English establishment, complete with crumpets & croquet

Our hero Fred Twistleton invites a group of friends to celebrate his fortieth birthday with him at Threeewood Hall, a rented stately home in Suffolk. Fred is a small-town solicitor, who has spent twenty years in a wheelchair after an accident on holiday after graduation. As a result, he has a sexual problem which means that he has never consummated a romantic relationship. The birthday party guests include Fred's brother and sister-in-law; his best friend from school, Hugh, who is now an outsider living in a van; the friend he flat-shared with after university together with his new Latino boyfriend; his agent friend Mary, who he wants to represent his memoir; and the celebrity foreign correspondent Heather, on whom Fred has had a crush for the last twenty years. And a dog.

In the finest tradition of P.G.Wodehouse, THE HA-HA incorporates a purloined manuscript, a stolen pig, a sinking, several falls, many misinterpretations and plenty of jokes. Fred's life is marked by a tragedy, but by the end of the novel he is on the brink of a new chapter in his life, thanks to his best friend, his sister-in-law and an unusual woman who looks after pigs.

A contemporary Jewish story that will appeal to readers of Francine Prose and Philip Roth

Hannah and Eric are a successful couple living in North London with their three children, and Eric's father Yosef, a survivor of the camps. They are devout Jews who believe in the literal truth of the Old Testament, all except for their youngest son Tovyah. The death of Yosef – the family's link to pre-war Europe – throws the family into disarray. Elsie, the model daughter, disappears for four days, plunging the family into a living nightmare. When she returns, just as mysteriously as she left, she is strangely altered. Witnessing the complete transformation of their daughter's personality and some increasingly hard-to-explain events, Hannah and Eric begin to suspect Elsie is under the influence of black magic. Tovyah, a brilliant university student, believes his sister is suffering a mental collapse caused by his parents' antiquated beliefs. But who is right? And can the family be reconciled before tearing itself apart?

At the heart of the novel are two questions. What does it mean to be bound to an ethical and metaphysical system thousands of years old? And if you reject that system, what is left of your Jewish identity? Through revolving points of view, any certainty in the face of these questions is undermined, and we witness a family trying to reckon with both historical and personal tragedy. The result is a fast-paced literary novel, with elements of horror.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Toby was born in London to a secular father and a Jewish mother. He studied English at Oxford University, before moving to America to pursue an MFA in Creative Writing at NYU where he was taught by E.L. Doctorow and Jonathan Safran Foer. Now thirty-three, he's returned to London where he works as a freelance tutor and writer.

He has published short stories and essays in various journals, including Carve Magazine and the Los Angeles Review of Books, and has been shortlisted for the VS Pritchett Prize and for the Jewish Book Week Emerging Writers Programme.

'I love Hollie's poems. There is such raw honesty and warmth and often humour within them. She is one of the best poets we have' – Matt Haig

'I've loved her work for years' – Jo Brand

This book is written out of both hate and love for the world.

As people, we are capable of both love and hate; amazement and disgust; fun and misery.

So why do we live in a world that is constantly telling us to hate, both ourselves and others? We are told constantly to be repulsed by our own bodies, bodies that let us laugh and sweat and eat toast, amongst other activities; to be ashamed of pleasure; to be embarrassed by fun. In this brand-new collection, Hollie McNish brings her inimitable style to the question of what we have been taught to hate, and if we might learn to love again.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Hollie McNish is a published UK poet based between London, Cambridge and Glasgow. She has two poetry collections – CHERRY PIE and PAPERS – and an album, Versus, which made her the first poet to record at Abbey Road Studios, London.

In 2016, Little Brown published her memoir of poetry and parenthood, NOBODY TOLD ME. It has been translated into 3 languages to date and won the Ted Hughes Prize for Poetry 2016. In June 2017, Picador published her third poetry collection, PLUM, to critical acclaim. PLUM was named in the Rough Trade Book of the Year list.

She has co-written the play OFFSIDE (Methuen), with Sabrina Mahfouz, and a new version of ANTIGONE for Storyhouse in 2021.

In 2021 SLUG & OTHER THINGS I'VE BEEN TOLD TO HATE was published by Fleet.

Wild, transgressive, erotic and resolutely uncompromising, this marks the return of a writer who is out there on an island of his own making; a book that will be talked about, celebrated and puzzled over for decades

Shortlisted for 2023 Goldsmiths Prize

‘A daring, meandering, brilliant book.’ – Literary Review

‘Single-handedly proving the novel isn't dead, Milward breathes new life into the form in this erudite, witty yet immaculately crafted, romp of a book’ – Ali Millar, author of THE LAST DAYS

‘MAN-EATING TYPEWRITER is truly extraordinary: as if Mervyn Peake and Kenneth Williams wrote a book with William Burroughs’ – Michael Bracewell, author of UNFINISHED BUSINESS

‘Remarkable, beautiful, magic. Like ULYSSES for those who can't cope with reading ULYSSES’ – Paolo Hewitt

Set at the fag-end of the 1960s and framed as a novel within a novel published by a seedy London purveyor of pulp fiction, MAN-EATING TYPEWRITER is a homage to the avant-garde counterculture of the 20th century. Told in Polari, it is the story of an anarchist named Raymond Novak and his plan to commit a 'fantabulosa crime' in 276 days that will revolt the world. A surrealistic odyssey that stretches from occupied Paris to the cruise-liner SS Unmentionable to lawless Tangier before settling in Swinging London, the book casts Novak as an agitator and freedom fighter – but, as his memoirs become more and more threatening, his publishers find themselves far more involved in his violent personality cult than they ever intended.

Constructed like a hallucinogenic cocktail of A CLOCKWORK ORANGE, PALE FIRE and Jean Genet's jailbird fantasies, MAN-EATING TYPEWRITER is an act of seductive sedition by a writer with unfathomable literary talent and boldness.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Richard Milward was born in Middlesbrough in 1984. His cult debut APPLES was published in 2007 when Richard was twenty-two years old, and sold in seven territories. It was followed by TEN STOREY LOVE SONG in 2009 and KIMBERLEY'S CAPITAL PUNISHMENT in 2012. APPLES was shortlisted for The South Bank Show/Times Breakthrough Award 2008, TEN STOREY LOVE SONG was chosen as one of Waterstones New Voices 2009, and KIMBERLEY'S CAPITAL PUNISHMENT was picked as Time Out Book of the Week in 2012.
